MAY RESUME WORK ON NEW ENTERPRISE DELAYED BY WAR

Cargo Carrying Steam-Boat For Service On Inland Waterways

CONSTRUCTION IS UNDER WAY

Capt. W. Harry Brown, the largest independent coal operator in the Monongahela valley, and who has extensive holdings of coal lands in the fifth and seventh pools of the Monongahela river, hopes to be able within a short time to resume work on a new type of boat for use in the valley coal trade.

Mention was made of this boat in the Mail several months ago, and it was confidently expected by Capt. Brown to have it in commission long before this. However, the continual drafts made by the war for skilled men and mechanics, as well as experienced river men, made it impossible for him to continue work on this enterprise, and as a consequence it has been at a standstill or some time. However, now that the armies are being demobilized and skilled men being rapidly released from service, Capt. Brown hopes to be able to resume activity on this new type of steamer, which may have an important bearing on revolutionizing trade conditions in the valley.

As pointed out in the Mail some time ago this new type of boat will be about 350 feet long, 45 feet beam and 10 feet depth of hold. It will be equipped with its own machinery, and its appearance will be somewhat after the style of the lake boats now in service on the great lakes. This new steamer is being constructed at the Brown plant above Brownsville, 350 tons of steel being required for its fabrication. The cost, frame and sheets and two-thirds of the head have been punched, where work was suspended, due to war conditions. Great difficulty was experienced in getting the required material, but the outlook is more promising at the present time. It is anticipated that Capt. Brown will order a resumption of work almost any time now, and his completed venture will be watched with great interest by all navigators and others interested in inland navigation.

Prominent Financier Is Called By Death

John Barclay Finley, one of the most prominent financiers in the city river mines and floating property in of Pittsburgh, and well known Monongahela valley. He was president of this section of the Monongahela valley, died at his home in Pittsburgh, Thursday morning at 6 o'clock. He was interested in many financial and industrial enterprises, and at the time of his death was President of the Colonial Steel Company.

Mr. Finley was born in Philadelphia 74 years ago, but moved with his parents to Finleyville, this county, when he was but six years of age. As a young man he entered the commercial house of Alexander & Co., employe in their banking house. In 1870 he organized the Peoples Savings Bank of Monongahela, which was later changed to the Peoples Bank and in later years merged into the Monongahela City Trust Company. In 1898 Mr. Finley, in conjunction with a number of Pittsburgh capitalists, organized the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, which took over all the

FINE NEW CAR IS ADDED TO EQUIPMENT

M. T. Crowley and Robert S. Coyle returned home Wednesday evening from Cleveland, having in charge a fine Peerless motor of the most modern make, which Mr. Crowley had purchased through the Elite garage of Charleroi. They went to Cleveland Monday evening and left the Peerless Motor Works there the next afternoon at 4 o'clock, bound for Charleroi, driving their new car overland. Following a route laid for them by the Peerless Motor officials, they reached Youngstown the same evening, traveling mostly over brick highways, all of which were in fine condition.

They left Youngstown Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and had a continuation of good roads as far as Unity in Beaver county, where they ran into some of the Pennsylvania variety. From Unity to Darlington the road was bad, but after reaching the latter point they had no trouble from highways, coming through Pittsburgh and up the Eighteenth street hill on high, arriving in Charleroi at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. In Ohio they traveled over a few macadam roads which were well kept, but they found the greater portion of the highways improved with brick, and all in fine shape. They came through from Cleveland without a particle of trouble, and made excellent time all the way.

The beneficial section of the Monongahela Turners will hold their Big Ball Monday evening, March 3, in Turner hall, Monongahela, Pa. Admission gentlemen 50 cents, ladies 25 cents. New management. 225-13

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO REV. BASTIAN

A farewell reception was held at the Christ Lutheran church Thursday evening in honor of Rev. C. P. Bastian and family. The following program was rendered: "America" by the congregation; Scripture reading and prayer; solo, Earl A. Nicholson; selection by the choir of the church; Mrs. Earl A. Nicholson; talks by Rev. Bastian and Rev. Allbeck of Monongahela. After the program the congregation adjourned to a social hour, which was enjoyed by all present. Rev. Bastian was presented with a cut glass water set in behalf of the women of the church. Rev. Bastian left this morning to take up his work at Berlin, Pa. Mrs. Bastian and family will join him in two weeks.

CAVE-IN AT MANHOLE INTERRUPTS TRAFFIC

Street car traffic was interrupted at Seventh street and McKean avenue Thursday evening about 5:15 all in fine shape. They came through from Cleveland without a particle of trouble, and made excellent time all the way. The cave-in was so large and the street car tracks so badly disarranged that it was found necessary to transfer passengers at that point for about one hour, while temporary repairs were being made. A force of men under direction of Street Commissioner Hornell are making the necessary repairs, the street car company assisting in the way of placing girder rails in order to strengthen the tracks. The borough and the street car company have had considerable trouble at this point of late with this manhole, which seems to have gone to pieces and now it will have to be thoroughly repaired.

Wednesday evening at the parsonage of Christ Lutheran church the wedding of Miss Bertha Bell Anthony daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Anthony of Sixth street to Forest Pfeleghardt of Fayette City took place. The ceremony being performed by Rev. C. P. Bastian. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anthony.

ELKS BANQUET A SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

The annual "Get-Together" meeting and assembly of Charleroi Lodge No. 494, B. P. O. E., was held at the Club rooms Thursday evening and it was pronounced one of the most successful gatherings of the kind ever held by the local Elks. The guest list was confined exclusively to members of Charleroi Lodge, one hundred and twenty-five of them being present. The "Dollar Dinner" was served at 8:30 o'clock and was one of "Bill" High's best. At the conclusion of the dinner speeches were in order. W. R. Gaut acting as toastmaster and introducing those who were listed to bring the true spirit of the meeting to those who participated. Former Governor John K. Tener, who came on from New York especially for this meeting, was the principal speaker of the evening, and his address was a long line of lofty ideals for which he was fully portrayed in a most excellent presentation. Additional features of the evening were vocal solos by Al Boucher and Walter Urban, while various "stunts" provided by the committee in charge gave plenty of amusement throughout the evening for all the guests.

MANY COKE OVENS ARE REPORTED IDLE

Reports from the Connellsville coke region indicate that about one third of the coke ovens are idle, owing to industrial conditions. As compared with this time last year the production of the region fell off over 20,000 tons last week in comparison with the same period in 1918. No material gain is expected in conditions for some time.

Provides For Lights On All Vehicles Using Highways

IS A SAFETY-FIRST MEASURE

Automobile owners throughout the state are watching with interest Senate Bill No. 110, recently introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature and which requires the display of a light upon horse drawn vehicles at night.

Some years ago when Hon. Charles A. Bentley was a member of the lower House from Washington county, he introduced a similar bill, but it was never reported from committee, the measure being allowed to die without being discussed before that body. Other bills of a like nature have been repeatedly introduced at succeeding sessions of the Legislature, only to meet the same fate, because of the opposition of the Granges in Pennsylvania. Now the question comes prominently before the people: Are the representatives of the farmers still going to fight this measure designed in the interest of safety, and more particularly the safety of the farmer himself.

It is pointed out that the automobile has established new conditions on the highway at night. Before the use of the motor-driven vehicle became general, horse-drawn conveyances were in comparatively little danger of collision. Both the speed and the vision of the horse prevented the crash. Lights were scarcely necessary, though then, as now, they gave security.

But with the constantly increasing crop of autos, all of them lighted front and rear, the vehicle without lights is a menace not only to the auto traffic but to itself. Farmers who drive automobiles realize this quite as much as others. There have been many costly collisions, where lights have not been used, where the motorist was in no way at fault, and there will be more unless all traffic on the public roads displays some kind of illumination at night.

SUCCESSFUL AIR MAIL

Those living near the air-mail route from Washington to New York have observed that on foggy days the letter carriers of the sky seem to be embarrassed, flying low and wandering out of their regular course. Yet there is every reason to credit—with this single reservation—the official announcement that since May 15 of last year the service has been "functioning perfectly." No doubt the achievement is both genuine and inspiring. We read that the mail time between New York and Washington, a section of the proposed course between Boston and Key West has been reduced to two hours, and that the time between New York and Chicago—on the proposed route to San Francisco—has been reduced to about nine hours, including stops, a great gain over the 21-hour schedule of the Twentieth Century Limited. Even greater shortening of time is expected over some of the other lines proposed in Mr. Burleson's program. These include lines from Key West to Havana and Panama and from Key West to the West Indies to South America.

These latter would do much to develop commercial relations with Latin-America, but could they pay expenses without very high rates? The shorter routes through our thickly populated areas are certain to pay well. The air mail between New York and Washington has been so successful financially, it is said, that the rate of postage could be much reduced and still bring a profit. Our government has spent many millions in airplane equipment for purposes of war, but it is manifest that airplane equipment for industrial purposes must be less expensive. No doubt it will be, nor is there any doubt that the utility of long and continuous flight will be greatly extended.

AN INGLORIOUS END.

While William Hohenzollern is a trembling fugitive in Holland, with the upward curl taken out of his moustache, a growing beard and a limited wardrobe which includes no uniforms, former Admiral von Tirpitz is a refugee in Switzerland, with his whiskers severely trimmed and a greatly restricted exchequer. The fleet which he was largely instrumental in creating is now lying in British harbors, and is very likely to be sent to the bottom of the sea on which William Hohenzollern boasted that his future dominion lay. More than two hundred of his submarines with which von Tirpitz thought to win victory for his country by means of a system of unrestricted murder and piracy are also lying beneath the waves and the rest are surrendered or destroyed.

There are none now so lowly in Germany as to honor to the former Grand Admiral Bankrupt in fortune as well as in reputation, with the prospect of being brought to account with his former master for a series of atrocious crimes, he is dependent on the hospitality of a Swiss general, while his son is earning a living as a bank clerk and his daughter as a governess. Surely the hand of avenging fate may be recognized in the present condition of the man who four years ago promised Germany to bring proud Britain to her knees, and who two years later persuaded his government into a policy of indiscriminate murder and insolent disregard for the rights of neutral nations. It was Tirpitz who brought the United States into the war, and thus forever settled the fate of Germany, now fallen from the condition of a first class power to that of a congeries of states, without cohesion and shorn of all military strength.

EATING AND FIGHTING

Apparently Senator Borah reasons that it is better to fight than to eat, and certain other Senators, who do not decline the invitation to the White House dinner, consider it better to eat first and fight afterward. And why not? Fighting and eating have ever been two of the most absorbing and pleasurable occupations of man. The ancient Teutons were aware of this when they pitched upon these as the two supreme joys of their heaven, providing that the souls in their Valhalla should do nothing else.

INSTANT POSTUM

Contains
no caffeine.

There is a certain pleasure in eating the best food in distinguished company even if one is not the observed of all observers or the acknowledged leader of the conversational discussion. After all, "a good dinner in good company is a mighty good thing," as a philosopher of Anthony Trollope's creation observed when the Duke of Omnium bade the "best people" of the countryside to a feast in his dining hall and then did not condescend to eat with them, merely showing himself once in the doorway and faring them to be content with only a bowl to the company in general.

A good dinner at the White House in the company of thirty-seven prominent statesmen is worth while even in the case of those who do not care to hear the President explain in detail the provision of the proposed constitution of the League of Nations. It is possible to be entertained even when one does not agree and nothing is so wit-sharpening as a lively clash of minds.

Rugby Football.

At the famous school of Rugby, England, originated that form of football, now bearing the name of the school. An inscription at Rugby reads: "This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who, with a fine disregard for the rules of football, as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the rugby game. A. D. 1823."

Frogs as Wasp Eaters.

The common green frog has been discovered to possess an insatiable greed for wasps. This extraordinary appetite does not seem to be in the least checked by an occasional sting. The protecting color of the frog, which sits motionless upon leaves, no doubt deludes the most wary of insects into a sense of security.—Nyaack Evening Journal.

Commerce and Art United.

The period of Antwerp's great rise to commercial prosperity was also that of the city's chief artistic production. The names of Quentin Matsys and of Rubens are specially connected with the city, for Rubens was essentially an Antwerp man, although he was not, like Teniers and elder, and Van Dyke, a native of the place.

Things Evened Up.

Bobbie walks home from kindergarten with a little neighbor girl who goes to public school. He calls her his sweetheart. So the other day his big brother said to Bobbie: "Oh, Bob, she's too big to be your sweetheart." But Bobbie met the proposition thus: "Her head's higher than mine, but her feet ain't."

Life of a File.

Efficiency experts have been studying files and find that the life of one of these tools, on the average, is 25,000 strokes. To employ a file for more than its normal period of usefulness, it is claimed, more than doubles the cost of the work.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Japanese as Gymnasts.

Nearly all Japanese soldiers are expert gymnasts, and every barracks has a gymnasium. So well trained are they that in less than half a minute they can scale a wall 14 feet high by simply leaping on each other's shoulders, one man sustaining two or three others.

French in South America.

Throughout South America French is almost universally read; editions of the classics are in most homes, and book stores are filled with modern French writers of prose or verse, both a translation and in the original.

Wholesome Don't.

Retaining Youthfulness.

A man who believes that environment saves thousands of lives said to me recently, "Oh, yes, every man is influenced by his environment. I always associate with men who are young, full of enthusiasm, determined to succeed, and who feel that there is no difficulty that is too great for them to surmount. I keep me youthful. It prolongs my life. Whenever I am in their presence I feel a tremendous amount of enthusiasm, a wonderful zest for living."—Fern Howard.

Canning.

The French were the first people to preserve fruits and vegetables. This was away back in 1810. The French government offered a prize for the best method of storing foods during the winter months, and among the solutions was the canning process. America invented the fruit jar and brought the canning industry to be one of the largest and most important in the world, running into billions of dollars annually.

Honduras Attractive.

With a population estimated at 600,000 and an area approximately equal to that of Pennsylvania, Honduras has abundant room for development. It has a tropical climate with few of the usual disadvantages. The interior is mountainous and salubrious, with considerable rich land suitable for diversified farming and fruit growing, while all of the remainder, even the deep mountain slopes, is used for pasturage.

Law of Compensation.

The law of compensation is, even in these wonderful modern days, very much in evidence. Most of us—in fact, all of us—receive from the world just what we give to it. Smiles and happy words will fall from other lips to us if we ourselves play the same role; but if we are too busy or too "big" to practice those little courtesies we should not be surprised to see our frowns on the faces we meet.

Preserve Apples.

Use dry sand which has been heated and cooled again. Cover the bottom of a stone jar with sand, put in one layer of apples, having the fruit about one-half inch apart, cover with sand, out in another layer of apples, and so on till the jar is full. The jar must be closed air-tight and kept in a cool place. The sand will keep the apples dry and preserve the flavor.

White Paper.

The white paper of which newspapers are made is 98 per cent spruce wood that has been reduced to a pulp and then converted into paper. No other wood is as available for this purpose, and in making newspaper, cardboard and other papers and paper products this country consumes 5,500,000 cords of spruce wood yearly.—Kansas City Times.

Aid in Self-Mastery.

It is a good practice for people to make a practice of doing something every day for their development, that they don't want to do, and then to do themselves every day something they want. This should not be for a day, a week or a year, but a life work. In no other way can a man become master of himself.—Dr. J. H. Telden.

Deep Tell.

London Answers tells the story of a medical student who, one night at Queen's Hall, slithered up to a couple of long-haired professors in the hope of hearing some learned conversation. "Ten cents each," one of the professors was observing, "and not even new-laid!"

Defined.

One day while we had a neighbor's little boy out for a drive we passed a pasture in which were several cows and calves. I asked him what those little animals were and he spoke up quickly, "It's what after it grows up is a cow."—Exchange.

Prospects of Palestine.

Palestine has never had a well-defined boundary except the sea on its west, but it is understood to be about 10,000 miles in extent. Much of this area is too dry and rocky for tillage; large parts are too dry even for cattle or sheep.

Can You Beat It?

To prevent misuse of automobiles a device has been invented that prints within a locked box a record of the time and duration of every stop made by a car to which it is attached and the distance and speed between stops.

Harold was told to run over and see what the prices were for a special picture showing at the movies that evening. When he came back he said: "It's 15 cents for children and 17 cents for the overgrown."

Gigantic Amazon.

The Amazon drains an area of 2,500,000 square miles—ten times the area of France—and in connection with the river and its tributaries there are said to be 50,000 miles of navigable water.

Spasmodic Sermon.

Many a man finds himself in deep water before he gets in the swim.

GRIP'S TERRORS MADE TO FLEE AVERS WOMAN

Mrs. H. B. Miller of Blairsville, Intersession, near Johnstown, Pa., said: Last winter I had the worst attack of grippe ever known in our neighborhood. It seemed to have left me a complete nervous wreck. I had no appetite and was compelled to take bromides continually to keep my nerves quiet so that I could get a little rest at night. If I did not I would spring up in my sleep in fright at the least bit of noise, even the rattling of the windows by the wind. If I forced food into my stomach I suffered the most distressing pains from gas. I was continually belching up sour stuff and gas. I always was constipated. My physician said that I was a complete nervous wreck and never would be well again.

Finally I decided to get a bottle of this Tanlac. I sleep like a child without any bromides. My health is perfect. During the epidemics of grippe I took Tanlac to keep off any possible colds, and have been entirely well, while many of my friends have been getting down with grippe. We keep Tanlac in our house all the time.

The genuine Tanlac bearing name of J. I. Gore Co. is sold by Frank J. John and Piper's Pharmacy.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Woman's power in America is well illustrated by the thousands of women who entered almost every line of business to replace men who were drafted during the war. Many women, however, developed weak, nervous conditions and could not stand the strain of a business life. Such women should remember there is one tried and true remedy in Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable Compound which for forty-five years has been restoring health and strength to the women of America.

Our Job Department Is Always Busy—There's a Reason

Such Women Just Have to "Give Up"

"Man may work from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done." That's why women are overworked, nervous, all run down, no appetite, and can "hardly drag around." Vinol creates a hearty appetite, strengthens the digestive organs, induces sound sleep, invigorates the nerves, and in this natural manner creates working strength.

Narragansett Pier, R.I. "I was all run-down, back ached, and tired all the time. I kept house for my husband and four children and could hardly keep around. Finally I tried Vinol and in a week I felt like a new person. I am now strong again, look after my baby, and do all my housework."—Mrs. G. H. Lamson.

For all run-down, nervous, anemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

WILL BE NO SMALL STATE

Czecho-Slovakia Could at Once Take Rank as Eighth World Power, Asserts Writer.

We are told the Czecho-Slovak state will be a small one, and as a result its existence will be precarious, assuming the world shall remain in anything like its present condition of international disorganization. Charles Pergler writes in Asia Magazine. In the first place, as modern states go, the new state will not be a small one, having a population of about 12,000,000, and the area of the new state will be about 50,000 English square miles. When we recollect that Belgium has 11,273 square miles, it is seen at a glance that the new state can hardly be classed as small. Moreover, the belief in the necessity of large states, rife in certain circles of economic and political theorists, and largely based upon certain teachings of Karl Marx, is one of the superstitions that periodically appear, in order to be abandoned upon a sober second thought.

The theory that small states and nations cannot succeed is not borne out by history. Even prior to the war there were in Europe 27 states, and the great majority of these were small. There were only six of the so-called great powers: Russia, Germany, Austria-Hungary, England, France and Italy. Portugal, Denmark, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Belgium, Norway, Serbia, Greece, Holland, Sweden, Montenegro and Turkey are all, or were, smaller than the state we are attempting to describe. The latter will hold in Europe the eighth place, only England, Poland, France, Italy, Spain and Russia being larger.

FIGHTERS GOT THEIR "EATS"

How American Soldiers at the Front Were Supplied by the Commissary With Food.

The service of supply of the American army receives a lion's share of praise for our victory. Needs of men in the trenches and on the fighting line were well cared for. Hot meals were served to them to an extent unprecedented in any other war. Under barrage fire and gas attacks, however, hot food could not be carried forward. To meet this difficulty sealed containers were provided, each holding sufficient food for 25 men for a day. These containers were absolutely airtight to prevent poisoning of food by gas. They contained a dry, hard corn bread, corned beef, corned-beef hash, roast beef, salmon, sardines, salt, sugar and coffee soluble in cold water, together with the necessary can openers. Each container weighed 107 pounds and was cleverly camouflaged for its trip to the firing line. An emergency ration similar to the "iron ration" of the British army was provided for the Americans. This was the ration they carried over the top and used only in dire extremity. It consists of ground meat and wheat pressed into a cake, and a block of sweet chocolate. The cake can be eaten dry or stirred into cold water. One cake boiled four minutes in three pints of water makes a nourishing soup, in one pint of water an acceptable porridge. The S. O. S. relied upon its mighty accumulation of foods from America for everything except fresh vegetables. It was almost independent in this respect, however, for 16,000,000 pounds of dehydrated vegetables were contracted for in the United States.—Thomas F. Logan in Leslie's.

Praise "Stars and Stripes." Newspaper men, magazine men, literary and, in fact, everyone in America interested in catching the spirit of the Yank invasion of Europe, should by all means read copies of that greatest voice of the American expeditionary forces, the Stars and Stripes. Letters from pals and relatives paint little intimate tableaux of the extraordinary life of the Yankees in France, but a few copies of the Stars and Stripes can rear an atmosphere which hundreds of excellent letters could not begin to comprise. The editors, by their work, show that they are regular fellows. They have the viewpoint of the buck private, as well as that of the gray-haired executive with the silver stars on the shoulders.—The Quill.

Wiping Out Wild Beasts. One of the efforts of the state government of Arizona and the federal government in their campaign for the eradication of predatory animals, which cause large losses in range stock, is the employment of skilled hunters. Thirteen are now in the employ of the state and federal governments.

Other men are exterminating rodents which destroy ranges. One of the hunters within two months has killed 11 mountain lions. Another killed 55 coyotes within a month.

No "Can't" in Banking. The vice president of a big San Francisco bank remarked recently that they had run their business without any bank after the fire of 1906, without any money before the issue of clearing-house certificates in 1907 and without any men in the war-time influenza epidemic of 1918, offering further proof, if proof be needed, of the resourcefulness of bankers.—Pacific Banker.

Had a Reason. "What makes you so sleepy around the office?" "It's my sense of duty, boss." "Huh?" "I lie awake too much at night thinking about my work."

SUCCESS, NOT FOR LEANERS

Man That Wins in Life's Struggle Must Have the Utmost Confidence in Himself.

Power is the goal of every worthy ambition, and only weakness comes from limitation or dependence on others. Power is self-generated. We cannot increase the strength of our muscles by sitting in a gymnasium and letting another exercise for us.

Nothing else so destroys the power to stand alone as the habit of leaning upon others. If you lean you will never be strong or original. Stand alone or bury your ambition to be somebody in the world.

The man who tries to give his children a start in the world so that they will not have so hard a time as he had is unknowingly bringing disaster upon them. What he calls giving them a start will probably give them a setback in the world. Young people need all the motive power they can get. They are naturally learners, imitators, copiers, and it is easy for them to develop into echoes or imitations. They will not walk alone while you furnish crutches; they will lean upon you just as long as you will let them.

One of the greatest delusions that a human being could ever have is that he is permanently benefited by continued assistance from others.—Orison Swett Marden, in Success.

AIM SHOULD BE PERFECTION

Man Who Is Satisfied With Nothing but the Best Is Man Who Will Make Good in Life.

Don't get into the "that's-good-enough" habit. Nothing short of "perfect" should be your motto.

Slovenly habits of mind and hand grow faster than good habits. A slipshod manner of thinking results in slipshod methods of work.

You will never become efficient in any one thing till you get it firmly fixed in your mind that if another can do it better than you you are not doing well.

Thoroughness and accuracy play a big part in the success or failure of the individual.

You may be artistic and temperamental and dreamy, but you will never realize your dreams till you get down to brass tacks and do what you do with precision and dispatch.

There is plenty of time to exercise your artistic moods after you have learned all there is to know of the mechanical and fundamental principles of the work or accomplishment you think you were out to do.

Remember that interpretation comes last.

There must be weeks, months and years of systematic and consistent drill before one is capable of exercising the faculty of interpretation.

Merchant Bar

Merchant bar, or merchant iron, is the bar iron which has been finished by passing through the merchant rolls. Puddled bars are worked into merchant iron or merchant bar by being cut into pieces of suitable length, which are then piled in packets, heated into welding heat, and then hammered into bars of suitable shape to put on the market. The amount of labor bestowed on this process depends on the quality of the iron it is desired to produce. Puddled bars, which have been rolled a second time are called "No. 2," and this is usually designated as "merchant bar." It is the lowest quality of iron available for the smith's general use. If piled and rolled again the product is called "No. 3." Another repetition of the process furnishes an article known as "best-best," and still another gives "treble-best."

Boy's Instinct True

"Historian of the sky" was the title bestowed on Angelo Secchi, the famous Italian astronomer. A quaint little anecdote is told of him at the time of his first visit to London. Not knowing English, he wondered how he should find his way about, and confided his doubts to his young companion, an Italian boy of fifteen. Finally they decided that the best plan would be to go and look for an Italian. "Our difficulties will then be met," said Secchi, and went straight for the British museum. Entering the reading room, he looked rapidly at the readers and unhesitatingly accosted one of them with, "Bon giorno! Lei e italiano!" He was not mistaken, and the Italian not only directed Secchi where he wished to go, but became his host during his stay in the British capital.

A quaint custom with the boys of France, at the time when they are called to the colors, is the wearing, just for a day or two, of a tall silk hat and falling that, of the tallest felt hat they can procure. Pinning bands of newspaper to the crown, they sally forth thus decorated and parade the streets of towns and villages, as the case may be. Often hats are handed from father to son, or from brother to brother, and worn heedless of size or shape. The boys, having worn the "chapeau de forme" for 24 hours or so, stream into the barracks and become the conscripts, and then the famous "poilus" of France.

GIVES TEN HERBS

AN ENDORSEMENT

Mrs. Virginia Wilson claims
Ten-Herbs Restored Her To Good Health

"For nearly 14 years I suffered with stomach trouble, but thanks to your medicine, Ten-Herbs, it has entirely left me, and I can eat anything I want," said Mrs. Virginia Wilson, who conducts a popular hair dressing parlor on Pittsburgh, in a recent interview with the Ten-Herbs expert, at the McCullough Drug Co.'s store corner of Penn avenue and Federal street.

Mrs. Wilson is well known socially as well as in the business world, being prominent in "Red Cross" and other charitable works. Continuing, she said:

"I was born in the south (Richmond Va.) and have been in business in Pittsburgh for nearly three years and all of my friends can testify as to my poor health.

"My stomach bothered me so much that it was almost impossible to digest my food and I was in constant pain from the fermentation, which caused gas to form to such an extent that I was very dizzy and at night I could hardly ever get a good night's sleep. My weight was steadily decreasing and I was badly run down.

"I had been reading where your medicine, Ten-Herbs, had benefited people who suffered from stomach trouble, which influenced me to try it, and I can truthfully state that it helped me from the first dose and relieved me of the gas and distress which I suffered from.

"That night I slept like a child and have steadily improved every day since. I can eat any kind of food and digest it perfectly and the pains in my back have entirely disappeared; in fact, I feel like a new woman and am only too glad to give you this public endorsement for Ten-Herbs, as it has entirely restored me to health."

Ten-Herbs is sold in Charleroi at Hennings' Drug Store.

Mrs. John Slater of Orangeburg, S. C., has returned home after spending the past week with her brother M. A. Carroll of Meadow avenue.

NEW BOAT WILL SOON BE IN COMMISSION

What will be considered one of the most powerful boats designed for service on the Monongahela river was launched at Ambridge, on the Ohio river this afternoon, at the boat works of the American Bridge Company. This new boat is building for the Carnegie Steel company, for the coal towing trade between the sixth pool and the Clairton by-product coke ovens. The new boat will be named the Edgar Thomson. It will be constructed entirely of steel and after being launched will be completed within three months. It will be of the stern wheel type, 34 feet beam, 175 feet long and 4.6 feet depth of hold. It will be equipped with compound machinery, high pressure cylinders 15 inches in diameter and low pressure 30 inches and a seven-foot stroke, turning a wheel 23 feet in diameter. Another boat of the same type will be launched in about two weeks, while a third boat is about 40 per cent completed.

The Mail gave a description of these boats some time ago, and it is expected that all three of them, as well as another boat now building at the Rees yards in Pittsburgh will be in commission on the Monongahela before the coming midsummer. At that time it is expected the Carnegie fleet will be the largest on the river and towing more coal than any other company in the Monongahela valley.

Acres of Bananas.

In India and the Malay peninsula the produce from one acre of bananas—or plantains, as the fruit is termed in that region—will support a much greater number of people than a similar area under any other crop. Plantain meal is made by stripping off the husk, slicing the core, drying it in the sun and then reducing it to powder, and finally sifting. It is calculated that the fresh core will give 40 per cent of meal, and that an acre of average quality will yield over a ton.

Strive to Keep Sweet.

Some folks are the very picture of misery. Their mouths are so constantly in a sour pout that they get ugly before they get gray. The kiddies take to their heels when they see the nagger coming down the street. Objectors are always wanting a new boss. Dismal old age stares the unfortunate victim in the face and he's bound to get soured on the world for the world has little to offer him. You can't take such risks.—Exchange.

Hun Palindrome.

The longest single-word palindromes in the English language are said to be "reviver" and "torator," each containing seven letters. A friend of ours has discovered one of nine letters, viz., "detanated," which may or may not be in the dictionaries. The Germans, however, have a palindrome of no less than thirteen letters, "reliefpfeiler," meaning relief columns.—Boston Transcript.

Young Financier.

Newell entered his father's study one day much excited and out of breath. "Oh, papa," he said, "a man out in the street has some pigeons for sale, and I just lack 24 cents of having enough to buy one. Won't you give me that much?" As the father handed over the desired amount he asked how much the pigeons were worth. As the small boy hurried away he shouted back: "Twenty-five cents."

Cause of Sun's Eclipse.

Eclipses of the sun are caused by the moon coming between the earth and the sun in such manner as to obscure the sun or a portion of it from the view of a section of the earth. An eclipse of the moon results when the earth comes between the sun and the moon so that the shadow of the earth falls upon the whole or a part of that portion of the moon visible to the earth.

Dead Civilizations.

We think ours a wonderful civilization, and it is, in a way notwithstanding the shadows that rest upon its soul. But there have been civilizations almost if not quite as splendid as our own. And they are gone—indeed so dead that not a tombstone remains to mark the grave.—Christian Herald.

AUTO DRIVERS FAVOR NEW MEASURE

plan is to make the provision universal. The wise farmer lights his wagon even without a compulsory law. He knows that it safeguards him. Every farmer and every other interest ought to welcome a measure designed to protect the users of the highways.

Moreover, with many additional miles of roadways shortly to be improved, it is going to bring an increasing number of automobiles into use where they are now somewhat restricted owing to bad highway conditions. This will naturally tend to greater congestion on these roads, and the need for greater caution and care on the part of all drivers, whether of autos or horse-drawn vehicles. This only adds an additional argument in favor of having lights on all vehicles using the highways and the bill now before the Assembly should be enacted into a law. It is a safety first provision.
